INTERNAL SECURITY - CUBA

On October 21, 1965, Investigative Clerk (IC) [ ] [ ] advised that a check of the available records of the Chicago Police Department failed to disclose any information identifiable with Georgie Anne Geyer.

b6
b7c

On October 23, 1965, IC [ ] advised that a check of the records of the Chicago Credit Bureau, Incorporated, failed to disclose any information identifiable with Georgie Anne Geyer.

On November 4, 1965, CG T-1 advised that Georgie
Anne Geyer did attend the Seventh World Youth Festival held in Vienna, Austria, in July-August, 1959. CG T-1 stated that Miss Geyer was about 26 to 27 years of age and in her conversation displayed an anti-Soviet pro-American attitude. Miss Geyer apparently was attending the World Youth Festival as a reporter since she periodically transmitted dispatches to a newspaper in the United States. Miss Geyer at the present time is a staff writer for the "Chicago Daily News".

The Tuesday, November 2, 1965, Red Streak Edition of the "Chicago Daily News" contained a story on page two under the byline of Georgie Anne, Geyer, Daily News Foreign Service, which consisted of an "exclusive Daily News interview" with Juan Bosch, Dominican Republic leader at Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic.

The files of the Chicago Office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) failed to disclose any derogatory information identifiable with Georgie Anne Geyer.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is

INTERNAL SECURITY - CU

The files of the Passport Office, United States Department of State, were reviewed on November 15, 1966, by a representative of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and disclosed the following information not previously reported:

On June 17, 1966, [redacted] Chicago Daily News, 401 North Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, wrote the Passport Office advising that Georgie Anne Geyer of the Chicago Daily News Foreign Service was being assigned to report on Cuba for three or four weeks beginning June 25, 1966. He enclosed Geyer's passport (B 533740, issued September 1, 1961) and requested that it be validated for travel to Cuba.

On June 21, 1966, Geyer's passport was endorsed to be valid for one round trip to Cuba and forwarded to her by Air Special Delivery in care of the Chicago Daily News.

On June 24, 1966, the Passport Office sent a message to the Chicago Passport Agency stating that Geyer had reported that she had not received the above passport. The Passport Office stated that Geyer had been advised to report to the Chicago Passport Agency to apply for a new passport which was to be endorsed for one round trip to Cuba. On this same date Geyer was issued passport G 598935 at Chicago, Illinois, which contained the above endorsement. She listed her

A Generation in Revolt Against Hypocrisy

Cuba: School for Radicals

One of a Series

And KEYES BEECH

Miami Herald-Chicago Daily News Wire

Not long ago a thoughtful, prosperous Chicago lawyer sat in his well-appointed office and mused: "I wonder how many people in this country are aware of the sea they're swimming in."

As musings go, it was singularly apt. For the United States is being battered by a revolutionary storm without parallel in the history of this country. It embraces all the hopes and fears of the American people, black and white.

Yet many, if not most, people are only dimly aware of what is happening and for that reason they are uncertain and afraid.

THE WAVE of terrorist bombings and kidnappings is only a symptom of a deeper malaise which, unless it is understood and dealt with, will radically alter the face of America for the worse.

Perhaps no one has better articulated the state of affairs than Charles Reich, a Yale law professor, in his newly published book, "The Greening of America."

"There is a revolution under way," he writes. "It is not like the revolutions of the past. It has originated with the individual and with culture, and it is sure to change the social structure only as its final act."

It will not require violence to succeed and it cannot be successfully resisted by violence. It is now spreading with amazing rapidity...

"Its ultimate creation could be a higher reason, a more human community and a new and liberated individual. This is the revolution of the new generation."

NOT EVERYONE will agree with Reich, certainly not Spiro T. Agnew. Reich wears hippie beads and soiled sneakers. But his book promises to do for the youthful revolution — if there is one — what Rachel Carson's "Silent Spring" did for ecology.

The rash of bombings across the country has obscured one vital fact: 99 per cent of today's college students are nonviolent and want to work within the system, if the system can find room for them.

Yet a great many young people have given up on the system and believe that the only way to bring about change is to overthrow the system itself. Even those who oppose violence are becoming increasingly radicalized as their disenchantment grows.

A University of Chicago student leader, asked what was new on the campus this year, said: "We'll do anything for the Black Panthers."

Then there's the election bag. We're interested in getting out the vote, working in the unions and that sort of thing. But we don't like any of the candidates, not even Adlai (Stevenson, running for the U.S. Senate)."

Asked how he felt about the bombing of the University of Wisconsin Math Center, the same student leader was ambivalent.

"MOST OF them are against that sort of thing," said Sidney Lens, author of "Radicalism in America" and a leading interpreter of radical movements, "but they wouldn't turn in a bomber."

Author James Michener, a self-confessed "square" who has been in residence at Kent State University for more than two months doing a book on what happened there, welcomed a change of pace when he was invited to talk to college fraternity students after talking to nobody but radicals.

"Hell," said Michener, "those fraternity boys were just as radical as the radicals."

"You'd be surprised," said Lens, "to know how much even the 'straight' kids under 18 hate the cops."

Theodore J. Lowi, 39-year-old Alabama-born University of Chicago political scientist, thinks things are going to get a lot worse before they get better.

"We're facing the most turmoil-ridden period in our history" and Lowi, author of "The End of Liberalism," which takes liberals to task for their failure to solve America's social ills. Lowi excluded the Civil War from his generalization.

"WHAT YOU'LL have is not guerrilla warfare but direct confrontation," he said. "We'll have zones of terror and zones of safety."

"That's what it will come to. That's what it already has come to."

Lowi pointed to "67th Street and Stony Island" on Chicago's predominantly black South Side as a zone of terror. "Mayor (Richard J.) Daley's writ doesn't apply here and he knows it," Lowi said.

Lowi was not predicting a simple black versus white confrontation.

"The violence will cut through racial barriers," he said. "Remember, there are more white radicals than black radicals. You'll have the hillbillies out too. Chicago will lose its sovereignty over much of its population just as other cities will."

Professor William H. McNeill, University of Chicago historian, took a more conservative view, although he agrees with Lowi that what the United States faces is not a political revolution but a cultural revolution.

"Are we having a revolution?" McNeill asked. "No, not if you mean a breakdown in public order and a new regime with a new ideology. Very rapid change, yes."

"A PROFESSOR of mine once told me that successful revolutions occur only when the old regime loses its nerve. I don't see any sign of that happening. The power centers, business and political leaders, haven't lost their nerve. And organized labor is most self-righteous of all."

"The establishment defensive mechanism has an overwhelming advantage. The police are a formidable force and so is their counter-intelligence network. They have crowd control devices that were never used before."

"Technologically, I just can't see how anybody can overthrow the forces of law and order. The first signs of revolution are decay in the morale of the police and armed force. I don't see any of this."

The young revolutionaries scoff at technology as they proclaim their humanism.

"All previous revolutions pivoted around an economic issue," says Lens. "What makes this one different is that it's humanistic. The kids today aren't like the working class kids of the '30s. Then they were penitent and wanted jobs. Today's kids are the sons of the factory owners."

WHAT IS bothering to-day's youth?

"They're appalled at the hypocrisy they see around them," said Lens. "For one thing, poverty in the midst of affluence. This is a generation in revolt against hypocrisy."

"All our moral mortgages have come due at once," said Lowi. His sweeping reference was to the plight of the blacks, inadequate medical care, the urban crisis and other social ills.

Lowi is discouraged by what he considers the lack of response of the Nixon Administration to the present crisis and the general "sluggishness of our political institutions."

Giving the FBI 1,000 more agents and beefing up police forces is, in Lowi's opinion, "merely treating the symptoms rather than the disease itself."

"Instead of putting more guards on federal buildings, we should be asking ourselves why it's necessary to put more guards on federal buildings," he said.

"WE ARE crisis-oriented. Recently a woman's liberation worker asked a Department of Justice lawyer why they hadn't done more to enforce women's rights. The reply was very revealing. The lawyer said there hadn't been much of a protest so they hadn't found it necessary to do anything."

Like other experts in the field, Lowi traced the origins of America's present radical movement to the civil rights movement of the early 1960s.

"The failure of the federal government to enforce civil rights set the agenda for everything that has happened since," he said. By the mid-1960s, he said, the civil rights movement had become open ended to include the Vietnam war, poverty, the draft and other issues. The draft, with all its built-in inequities, was from the beginning one of the major elements in radicalizing both white and black youths, Lowi said.

At the same time the radical movement nationalized, Lowi continued, it atomized or "balkanized."

"What we have," he said, "is a national phenomenon, not a national conspiracy. What has saved us so far is that we're such a big country."

"UNQUESTIONABLY, the Cuban revolution had a profound influence on the American radical movement. It was the tail that wagged the dog. Cuba played David to our Goliath. It appealed to American youth, which is why so many of them have gone down there. Cuba did not create the movement, but it helped shape it. We have always had a guilt complex about Cuba."

"Fidel Castro proved, as did (the late U.A.R. President Abdel Gamal Nasser) that a small country can wield a great deal of influence if you're prepared to commit suicide. Both probed around and found our weak spot."

"There's something in our mechanism that won't let us go in and bowl over a little country. Maybe we should be proud of it."

Nobody knows how many radical groups there are in the United States today, but even the radicals themselves. They proliferate too fast.

But the number of groups that identify with the New Left runs into the dozens and so does the number of underground newspapers on which they thrive.

In any case, mere numbers are not an accurate measure of the movement. The Black Panthers, for example, have fewer than 1,000 members. But their newspaper has a circulation of 150,000.

There are probably fewer than 100 hard core Weatherman, but their bang has far exceeded their numbers.

Next: Where does the movement go from here?

Dear Mr. Webster,

It was spendid to have a few minutes to talk with you at Morrie Liebman's dinner last spring. I used to work quite closely with the bureau, as you doubtless know.

It occurred to me, recalling all this, that I want to alert you to something, still some other nasty thing, that is going on in our country. The enclosed copy is something that I received in the mail--and represents, I'm afraid, as whole new series of attacks on people like me by certain Zionist groups. I have always taken the moderate, basically peace position on the Middle East, and this is a scurrilous and ominous development. There have already, as you probably know, been personal attacks on various people who have worked for Middle Easter research organizations, and I yhave every reason to expect it to get worse.

This letter was sent from Miami where there has been a vicious campaign against anyone who tries to make any sense on the Middle East. Not only from extremist Jewish groups but from very mainstream Jewish groups. Our names are brought up in such organizations like B'nai Brith and this is a signal for the "crazy" groups as to whom they should begin attacking. There has been an all out attack on my paper, The Miami News, against me and virtually all columnists, threatening boycotts and all sorts of public attacks.

I wanted very much to call this to your attention, as I am certain it's the new campaign against many, many of us. I also expect it will get much nastier. I would be happy to talk with you about it or to bring any further information to your attention, or to hear what you might suggest.

Warmest personal wishes,

Georgie Anne Geyer

Dear Miss Geyer:

I appreciate your sending me a copy of the December 1, 1982, communication you received in the mail. A review of it determined no violation, at this time, of a Federal law falling within our investigative authority. I am, however, forwarding a copy of it to our Miami Office for its information. If you receive any further data concerning this matter, please let us know.

With every good wish,

Sincerely yours,
